To:

Subject: MUR 7084

To whom it may concern:

Looking at the "Citizen's Guide" on the FEC website, I am reading that if I am merely employed by a company (or partnership) with Federal government contracts, I am permitted to make contributions from my personal funds. Please let me know if I am reading this incorrectly.

The subject MUR has me listed as the Director of Operations for Systems Technology Forum. While I do work for STF, I am not the Director of Operations. I am an hourly employee of STF working at a government facility.

Neither Scott Taylor, nor anyone associated with Scott Taylor, personally approached me for any campaign contributions. I saw one of his campaign signs on the side of a road, next to a sign for Randy Forbes. I googled Scott Taylor, found his website, and made a contribution using my personal bank account after reading about his background in the Navy (as I am retired Navy).

I respectfully request any actions against me be dismissed.

Sincerely,

SL Baggs
